Target group	Prospective students who need to study German in order to fulfil the German language requirement to gain admittance to a university and German language learners in general
Description/content	Our intensive courses are ideal if you want to learn German for your job or for your studies at a German university. Effectively and within a short period of time, you can reach all of the German language levels step by step. Each level ends with a test. The final exam after level C1 is TestDaF or telc C1 Hochschule (extra cost), which will enable you to begin a course of study in German. Besides vocabulary and grammar, the academic foci will be on listening, oral skills, and written skills. Modern language instruction will give you the chance to directly implement and use what you have learned. You will train the main competencies by using exam-relevant material and magazines and newspapers that address current topics. Additionally, we offer extra phonetic lessons to help you to develop clear pronunciation in German.

About the university:

Education and research with a 500-year-old tradition: Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg (MLU) offers a wide range of academic subjects in the areas of humanities, social sciences, natural sciences and medicine. The oldest and largest university in Saxony-Anhalt was created in 1817 when the University of Wittenberg (founded in 1502) merged with Friedrichs University Halle (founded in 1694). Today the university has around 20,000 students and 340 professors.

About the language institute:

The Institute for German Language and Culture has been offering German language courses for over 25 years. It arranges study abroad programmes and international teacher training programmes as well as international summer courses for 350 participants from more than 36 different countries each year. Additionally, intensive preparatory language courses for future university students are held in Halle, the hometown of the Martin Luther University. The institute is also a licensed exam centre for TestDaF and telc tests.

📍 University location

Halle is not only well known as the birthplace of the composer George Frederic Handel or for its Martin Luther University - it has much more to offer. Besides being a university town, a wealth of culture, history, and beautiful nature welcomes you. For weekend or afternoon trips, you can easily reach cities like Berlin, Leipzig, Dresden, or Weimar by train.
