

RISE

"My time in Germany as part of DAAD RISE Professional was unforgettable and such an amazing experience. I am so glad I was able to be a part of this program. I got invaluable experience at a worldclass company, to experience life in a foreign country, and to meet so many people and create relationships which I hope will last a lifetime. I know I will visit Germany again one day and perhaps even work there again. I highly recommend the DAAD RISE Professional program to anyone who is considering it."

RISE

Research Internships in Science and Engineering

daad.de/en

The RISE program (Research Internships in Science and Engineering) is a scholarship program offered by the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD). The program provides young students from North America, Great Britain and Ireland with the opportunity to complete research internships in Germany. Students from Germany can complete an internship around the world.

It is aimed at students in the natural sciences, engineering and related fields. The RISE program promotes intercultural exchange, strengthens scientific collaboration and is a career building experience. Students work in universities, companies and research institutions, receive financial support and develop their subject knowledge and intercultural skills. Working language is English.

The RISE program contributes to the promotion of international exchange in science and supports young talents on their path to a successful scientific career.
